He said out of the 1,440 individuals, 940 were vaccinated with Sinovac, 340 with AstraZeneca, 107 with Pfizer and 53 with Sputnik. Retuya said most patients showed only moderate to mild symptoms while others were asymptomatic. He said the patients underwent the reverse transcription polymerase chain reaction swab testing. "So far, only few were reported to have experienced severe symptoms when admitted for recovery," Retuya said.

"I'm vying for the vice presidency, but this is still very fluid because it will be being discussed with my wife. There are finalities on this," Gatchalian said.

"I will not run for VP if I am not chosen."
