Natural Immunity Is Getting A 'Boost' – Will Zero Covid Zealots Take Heed?

AUGUST 28, 2021 BY NEWS WIRE 27 COMMENTS

Let's face it: 'The Great Jabbapalooza' of the general population has been a colossal failure. Worldwide uptake is barely one-third. It's time to turn the page back.

Even the most steadfast bastions of Zero Covid zealotry, like the U.S. government and its all-powerful CDC, have managed to only 'fully' vaccinate (remember: this term is a marketing trick to prop-up Pfizer) just over half of its citizens.

What are the elite authoritarians running this transnational pharmaceutical racket doing? They are doing what they've always done – doubling down on their failed policies for risk of being called out on their lies.

There is, however, good news on the horizon!

Natural and acquired immunity, a biological phenomenon that's been widely accepted in mainstream discourse for generations – but now being suspiciously discarded – is getting a renewed 'booster' shot of confidence from a few different pockets of the world at this very moment.

Share these stories far and wide and let's see if our Corona dictators will consider taking heed...

It seems like the longstanding question over naturally-acquired immunity versus immunity from vaccination might have been answered.

If it checks out, it will have far-reaching policy implications.

Jeanna Norris is a supervisory Administrative Associate and Fiscal Officer at Michigan State University (MSU). She has naturally-acquired immunity to COVID-19 after recovering from the virus late last year. However, the university has threatened disciplinary action, even termination, if she and other employees do not comply with the school's mandatory COVID-19 vaccination policy. Ms. Norris is challenging Michigan State's unconstitutional "COVID Directives" for the Fall 2021 semester.
