The Definition of Insanity – BioNTech CEO says Fully Vaccinated may get infected with Omicron; so it's important to get your Booster

BY RHODA WILSON ON DECEMBER 2, 2021 • (15 COMMENTS)

Listen Now

Boris Johnson has said that the Omicron variant can be spread between those that are “double vaccinated” and on Tuesday BioNTech’s CEO agreed.

As has been the answer to all things Covid, the solution is more Covid injections as people are being encouraged to get a “booster.”

A booster of the same injections of which some people have had two or three. If those are not protecting people from being infected with or transmitting Covid, why would the third or the fourth?

Wall Street Journal: Why the Omicron Variant Is Concerning Scientists, 29 November 2021 (4 mins)

In the following text, words in Italic-bold are extracted from an article published by The Hill titled 'BioNTech co-founder: Vaccinated unlikely to become seriously ill from omicron' (<https://thehill.com/policy/healthcare/583640-biontech-co-founder-vaccinated-unlikely-to-become-seriously-ill-from>). Words in normal type are our comments and extracts from relevant articles published elsewhere.

BioNTech co-developed a Covid-19 injection with America's Pfizer. On 23 August 2021, the US Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") announced the first approval (<https://www.fda.gov/emergency-preparedness-and-response/coronavirus-disease-2019-covid-19/comirnaty-and-pfizer-biontech-covid-19-vaccine>) of a Covid-19 injection: "The vaccine has been known as the Pfizer-BioNTech Covid-19 vaccine, and will now be marketed as Comirnaty."

BioNTech co-founder [and CEO] Ugur Sahin said in an interview published Tuesday that while the omicron variant may result in more breakthrough cases of COVID-19, most vaccinated individuals will likely experience mild illness.

Sahin said, "Our message is: Don't freak out, the plan remains the same: Speed up the administration of a third booster shot."

In early November, shares of BioNTech () took a dramatic 20% plunge (<https://the-voiceof-london.uk/14956/biontech-shares-nosedive-on-news-of-whistleblower-report-covid-pills-rt-business-news/>) in the wake of a damning whistle-blower report. The whistle-blower, Brook Jackson (<https://dailyexpose.uk/2021/11/09/british-medical-journal-report-reveals-that-pfizer-falsified-covid-19-vaccine-data-in-clinical-trials/>), claimed that the company hired poorly-trained vaccinators, that it was slow to investigate the injections adverse effects and even falsified data on the trials. She provided the British Medical Journal with dozens of internal documents to substantiate her claims.

By the third week of November, Sahin said in an interview (<https://www.rt.com/news/540909-biontech-ceo-vaccine-booster-shot/>) that people around the world will need to get an injection against Covid-19 once a year, at least when it comes to the Pfizer "vaccine." We have to wonder if the push for more "vaccines" is related to bolstering BioNTech's share price.

In addition to the whistle-blower's revelations the efficacy of the injections as claimed by the trials has been brought into question. The randomised controlled method was applied to the Pfizer-BioNTech "vaccine" trials but Pfizer designed the trial, and they are highly experienced in setting up trials for success.

In broad terms, the absolute risk reduction ("ARR") compares the overall outcomes of one event versus another. The relative risk reduction ("RRR") ignores overall improvement—it just compares the benefit, no matter how small, of one event versus another. The Covid injection appeared to reduce the relative risk of Covid-19 (as defined by Pfizer) by an estimated 95% (<https://www.pandata.org/understanding-relative-risk-reduction-and-absolute-risk-reduction-in-vaccine-trials/>) over the short duration of the trial. However, the ARR is much less impressive at 0.84% (https://www.thelancet.com/journals/lanmic/article/PIIS2666-5247\(21\)00069-0/fulltext00069-0/fulltext)). It is not sound public health practice to say: "This vaccine is 95% effective, so let's give it to everyone".

Although no studies on the new variant have been released yet, Sahin said he believed vaccinated people will still be protected from severe illness based on how the vaccine he helped develop has protected against past variants that are more contagious. As an example, Sahin pointed to the delta variant.

Earlier in November, a US Food and Drugs Administration ("FDA") report showed Pfizer-BioNTech coronavirus injection clinical trials found, six months after trials began, 24% higher all-cause mortality rate (<https://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/317091>) among the "vaccinated" compared to placebo group.

A study at the end of November, by researchers from the University of Verona in Italy and Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center in Ohio, of health care workers found that the Pfizer-BioNTech Covid injection not only loses its efficacy within a few months, but drops by 57%, by six months, after the second dose (https://thevaccinereaction.org/2021/11/efficacy-of-pfizers-covid-biologic-estimated-at-33-percent/#_edn1), to about 33%.

And it raises serious questions why the FDA made a request to a federal judge asking whether they can wait 55 years to fully release all of the documents pertaining to the approval of the Pfizer injection.

Facts Matter: FDA Requests to Take 55 YEARS to Fully Release Vaccine Data, Federal Lawsuit, 19 November 2021 (20 mins)

BioNTech's vaccine, which was produced alongside Pfizer, works by creating antibodies that prevent infection from occurring in the first place as well as T lymphocytes, white blood cells that attack cells in the body that have already been infected.

If a virus achieves immune escape, it achieves it against antibodies, but there is the second level of immune response that protects from severe disease – the T-cells.

The Covid injections target the spike protein and only the spike protein, they do not target the whole virus. “Immunology and virology 101 have taught us over a century that natural immunity confers protection against a respiratory virus’s outer coat proteins, and not just one, e.g. the SARS-CoV-2 spike glycoprotein,” wrote Paul Elias Alexander (<https://dailyexpose.uk/2021/10/23/91-studies-prove-natural-immunity-is-better-than-covid-19-vaccines/>), a Canadian health researcher.

The N antibody provides immunity against the nucleocapsid protein which is the shell of the virus. N antibodies are a crucial part of the immune system response. However, the UK Health Security Agency (“UKHSA”) stated in its Vaccine Surveillance report (https://assets.publishing.service.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment_data/file/1027511/Vaccine-surveillance-report-week-42.pdf): “N antibody levels appear to be lower in individuals who acquire infection following 2 doses of vaccination.”

In other words, the Covid-19 injections interfere with the immune system’s ability to produce antibodies against the virus parts other than the spike protein.

If a new variant appears, with sufficiently numerous mutations to the spike protein so as to render the vaccine-induced antibodies useless, then the “vaccinated” have fewer defences, such as N antibodies, than those who have not had a Covid injection.

It seems things may get worse for the “vaccinated” as the omicron variant is claimed to have numerous mutations to the spike protein. If these are sufficient to render vaccine-induced antibodies useless then it is not unvaccinated people who need to be concerned (<https://dailyexpose.uk/2021/11/27/only-the-fully-vaccinated-should-fear-the-new-variant/>) but rather the “vaccinated.” It seems the pandemic of the “vaccinated” (<https://dailyexpose.uk/2021/11/02/worldwide-data-proves-the-highest-covid-19-case-rates-are-in-the-most-vaccinated-countries/>) is set to continue.

It is going to be a difficult task to try to convince people to take their third or fourth injection while trying to convince others to get their first.

I read elsewhere that ONLY the vaccinated have caught Omicron and that seems to be the case in all of the other reports I have read.

Results from people after Omicron is that the infection is not severe and is passed easily and nobody has died from it yet, so better for Omicron to replace Delta and all of the other variants, which would signal the end of the pandemic and life could return to normal, at least, for those of us who remain not vaccinated.

I can't say how things will go for those vaccinated and in fact, only time will tell, because if there is an ulterior motive to the vaccines, then that will show itself as time passes, but theoretically, over the next 2 years.

So if there was no longer a pandemic, then the makers of these vaccines would not be able to hide behind the ongoing pandemic (which no longer exists), if it did not exist any more and they could be hunted down and held to account, for all of the deaths and severe injuries they have knowingly caused, but for "Crimes Against Humanity" from the top down, including all of the Politicians which obviously they won't want, with hanging being one of the many death options, on the table.

And by the same token, I can understand why they are pushing more vaccines and booster shots, if, at days end, there are fewer people left to have the numbers to bring their comeuppance to them sooner, rather than later – death upon those who chose death, horribly, for the majority of you, who unwisely accepted their vaccines, in good faith.

Nowhere to run, nowhere to hide, but in reverse, for each of them.

Bring it on – perhaps there is a “God” after all!!

A Vaccination Conundrum.

Why do the ‘Protected’ need to be ‘Protected’ from the Unprotected by forcing the Unprotected to use the ‘Protection’ that didn’t ‘Protect’ the ‘Protected’ in the first place? Hmm..tricky! So, to conclude then; you have to coerce and convince the Unvaccinated to get the Vaccination because it works so very well, so they will get the Vaccination, whilst simultaneously trying to coerce and convince the already Double-Vaccinated to get a third Vaccination because the two previous Vaccinations didn’t work as well as they thought they would.

Well...good luck with that one!!

The ongoing COVID-19 nonsense here in the United States exists solely and exclusively because our governments have failed to use the correct treatment. They used so-called “vaccines” when Japan has just proven, in less than ONE MONTH, that Ivermectin can wipe out the disease. IVM was awarded the Nobel prize for medicine in 2015.
