Duterte mulls 4-day workweek

SWEET DAY With the sugarcane harvest in full swing, workers gather flowers at a farm in Alibon on Wednesday, March 16, 2022. The Blue Region is bracing for the influx of tourists as Covid-19 infections have slowed. PHOTO BY BIRSA ALONSO

MALACANANG is studying the proposal of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) to implement a four-day work week and extend the work-from-home (WFH) arrangement to cushion the impact of the steep climb of fuel prices on Filipinos and the economy. Palace acting spokesman Martin Andanan said.

P200 MONTHLY AID TO POOR HOUSEHOLDS PROPOSED

TO help soften the impact of rising oil prices, the country's economic managers proposed a monthly cash aid to the poorest households. Finance Secretary Carlos Dominguez III said in addition to fuel subsidy and disaster programs, the Cabinet's Economic Development Cluster (EDC) recommended additional relief in the form of an unconditional cash transfer (UCT) to the poorest half of the country's population. "We propose that we will give them an additional P200 per month or P2,000 per year for each household," he said. This will cover roughly 12 million households with a total population of around 74.7 million individuals. The proposed cash transfer will cost the government P93.1 billion, which will be financed from revenues from value-added taxes (VAT) on fuel. "We realize that this is not enough, but this is what we can afford at of this time," he said.

President not likely to back calls to scrap fuel excise tax
PRESIDENT Rodrigo Duterte stood firm on the decision not to scrap the excise taxes on fuel products amid the continuing price surge resulting from Russia's invasion of Ukraine. "I do not wish to decide about. College body are strong proponent" (The press is also a collegial body) in the sense that I have no Cabinet which I recommend to scrap the excise tax on fuel products. I am strong in my conviction that I will not be swayed from handling the case. "I do not wish to decide about.
