In a speech in the European Parliament earlier this month, Christine Anderson described the coercion of people into taking vaccines as the “biggest crime ever committed on humanity.”

“This vaccine campaign will go down as the biggest scandal in medical history,” Anderson declared, adding “moreover, it will be known as the worst crime ever committed on humanity.”

The MEP was addressing mass flight cancellations and siting on planes, asserting that while it is claimed the situation is hiring back enough staff after the pandemic, the real reality is staff have refused to get vaccinated.

Anderson further warned that “unscrupulous globalist elites are using the pandemic for their own ends, asking “What in God’s name are you doing?”

Addressing “each and every elected representative of people’s democracy,” Anderson asked “What have you done?”

“You didn’t do your job, and do not tell me you didn’t know,” she asserted, adding “it is your job to protect the people that are being harmed.”

She continued, “There is so much coming to light, all of which is being suppressed, on numerous studies now available, on foetal disfigurement and birth defects born to women who got vaccinated.”

“What in the hell is going on here?” Anderson urged, vowing to “make sure this is brought to light and ensure the rights of the people are protected.”
