

VIDEO: 70 000 protesting against EU and energy prices in Czechia

Massive protest on the streets in the Czech Republic.

Peter Imanuelsen

Sep 4

A large number of people gathered on the streets of Prague today to protest primarily against soaring energy prices, but also against the European Union, NATO and EU climate change plans. Protesters also wanted the country to be neutral militarily.

Some of the groups at the demonstration include the populist Freedom and Direct Democracy party and the Communist party.

"The aim of our demonstration is to demand change, mainly in solving the issue of energy prices, especially electricity and gas, which will destroy our economy this autumn" said Jiri Havel, co-organizer of the event.

The police estimate that the number of protesters were around 70 000 and they say that the protest was peaceful.

RadioGenova
@RadioGenova

In Prague in 100,000 people for freedom. They require direct gas supplies from Russia and food and energy guarantees for the Czech Republic. They hold the EU solely responsible for the European economic disaster and the rise in energy bills.

0:00 / 0:14

September 3rd 2022

779 Retweets 1,833 Likes

Wall Street Silver
@WallStreetSilv

BREAKING: Massive demonstration in Prague in the Czech Republic against the government, soaring prices and the energy crisis.

Protesters threaten strike and coercive action if government doesn't resign by September 25 🇨🇪

September 3rd 2022

1,229 Retweets 3,639 Likes

The protesters also demanded the resignation of the current coalition government led by the conservative Prime Minister Petr Fiala.

Not unsurprisingly, the government accused the protesters of being "pro-Russian" and that they did not have the country's best interests at heart, all though the group that organized the protests is called "Czech Republic First".

"The protests in Wenceslas Square was called by forces that are pro-Russian, are close to extreme positions and are against the interests of the Czech Republic" said Prime Minister Petr Fiala.

This protest has gotten some traction in the media, but just like with the massive protests against covid passports last year, it isn't being covered very much.

Europe is facing a winter with soaring electricity costs. In Norway, we recently had a peak at almost $1 per kwh.

PeterSweden
@PeterSweden7

Electricity prices in Norway are set to reach around $1 per kwh.

At these prices it would cost $100 to fully charge a Tesla.

In other words it is cheaper to fill up a tank of petrol, even with these crazy petrol prices.

So what is the point of an electric car?

August 28th 2022

4,361 Retweets 16,559 Likes

Things have gotten so bad that in Germany there is already energy rationing, with people getting their hot showers and indoor temperatures limited.

The Freedom Corner with PeterSweden

Energy rationing has arrived in Germany...

Remember when I warned you months ago that climate lockdowns were coming? Well, we are not exactly there yet, but we are getting energy rationing in Europe now! Besides, in the Netherlands the government is planning on forcing farmers to sell their farms to the state to meet climate goals. We have heard about that kind of thing before...Oh yes, und...

Read more

2 months ago · 87 likes · 21 comments · Peter Imanuelson

With the way things are looking, many small businesses risk going out of business because of the insane electricity prices, and winter isn't even here yet.

Of course, large corporations will be able to pay these prices, it will be the small businesses that will suffer because of this energy crisis.

And now people in the Czech Republic have taken to the streets to protest. It seems like we are seeing more and more protests in Europe lately, from the farmers protest in the Netherlands that spread to Germany and Belgium, and now these protests in Czechia.

The Freedom Corner with PeterSweden is a reader-supported publication. If you found this article useful, please take a few seconds to make sure you are SUBSCRIBED :)

10 Comments

Write a comment...

JamesDuff Writes JamesDuff's Newsletter Sep 4

Well Europe kik out Klaus WEF he is the head of the snake plus Soros

The big BEAR 🐻 RUSSIA is flexing its muscle

Good people need to push back before you

We all freeze and starve. Which seems to be

The goal of the deep state that wants to crush

It's citizens into accepting the WEF NWO

That is playing fuckery with the world.

USA is fighting a proxy war against Russia